FEATURES & BENEFITS

The Information Technology (IT) Schedule number 70 was established by the General Services Administration (GSA) to provide government agencies solutions for their various information technology requirements and to allow those agencies to procure the products and services they need.

This multiple award Schedule grants agencies direct access to the commercial experts who can thoroughly address the needs of the government IT community through Functional Areas (Special Item Numbers (SINs)) which cover most general purpose commercial information technology equipment, software, and services.

This Schedule is currently open for use by Federal, state, and local government agencies. Upon request, GSA's Federal Technology Service will handle the procurement of a Federal agency's contract needs. Directed task orders up to $3M are allowed.
